Hudaco Industries is a South African group whose principal activity is the importation and distribution of high quality branded industrial products in the southern African region. Hudaco businesses serve markets that fall into two primary categories. The bearings, powered transmission and diesel engine businesses supply engineering consumables mainly to mining and manufacturing customers whilst the security, power tool and automotive aftermarket businesses supply products into markets reliant on consumer spending. Adding value to the product sold by offering instant availability, advice and technical training, is a key part of Hudaco's business model.

Results

The group has delivered pleasing results in the first half of 2012.

Demand for Hudaco's product offering was particularly strong in the closing months of the 2011 financial year, no doubt partly due to customers buying ahead of anticipated price increases following the sudden weakening of the Rand in September 2011. In the event, price increases did not materialise as the Rand strengthened again in the beginning of 2012. Demand nevertheless remained reasonably strong until the end of March, after which there was a noticeable weakening. We attribute the weakening to lower demand from platinum mines following extended strike action and a general drop in confidence resulting from the ongoing crisis in Europe.

Sales at R1,6 billion were up 13%. The gross profit margin at 38,5% is slightly down on last year. Operating expenses as a percentage of sales declined to 27,1% from 28,4% last year

Operating profit grew 21% to R181 million with operating margin improving to 11,3% of sales. Headline and basic earnings per share of 441 cents are up 17% on last year. The interim dividend has been increased by 19% to 155 cents per share.

Working capital (inventories, accounts receivable and accounts payable) has increased as replacement stock has been bought at higher Rand prices. but this cash outlay will be recouped through price increases in the second half if the Rand remains at current levels. The group has net borrowings of R17 million at 31 May 2012

Engineering consumables segment

This segment is the biggest profit contributor to the group. Hudaco's acquisition activity over the past few years has added significantly to this segment's sales base and it is pleasing to note that all new businesses are performing in line with or ahead of expectations.

Sales of R1 064 million were up 9% on last year whilst operating profit increased 24% to R122 million as Bearings International and Bosworth, both underperformers last year, returned to normal

Consumer related products segment

Sales of power tools have remained strong but trading conditions in the rest of the segment were again muted during the period under review, particularly in the security business. Global Communications, consolidated here for the full six months (2011: four months), is mainly a tender business, so we expect sales and profits to be erratic.

Segment sales were up 23% to R533 million of which R39 million or 9% was due to the inclusion of Global and Pentagon for the full period. Operating profit increased 6% to R69 million.

Prospects

A significant percentage of Hudaco's sales are derived from the South and southern African mining industry and the manufacturing and service sectors supporting that industry. Constrained by insufficient infrastructure, particularly electricity and rail capacity, and policy uncertainty, mining investment in South Africa has stagnated over the past 10 years with some observers (including the DTI) arguing that the country is de-industrialising. Mining investment in neighbouring countries is growing strongly however, albeit off a low base, and Hudaco will continue to look beyond South Africa's borders for organic sales growth.

We anticipate that economic growth in South Africa will continue to remain weak over the next few years until new infrastructure comes on stream and a policy environment is created which encourages private sector investment. Although achieving meaningful earnings growth in such an environment is challenging, the group's acquisition programme will continue to supplement earnings. We expect further successes in the months ahead.

The goup's financial position is strong and we are confident about future earnings prospects.
